

After such a successful and fun meet in the Pyrenees - a reminder about the North Devon meet coming up soon . A chance to walk sections of the South West coastal path , rock climb , surf and eat cream teas the right way - cream then jam on top.

Ruda campsite. the meet is self booking - some of us are camping at Ruda Campsite and others have booked a camper van space .

There are many cottages available in the area also.

Book accommodation through the website - see link below.

A small group from Essex i.e. Southerners, are attending and a northern contingent will also brave the journey to the South West.

The area offers climbing on the sea cliffs to Baggy Point and Hartland Point. For the brave there is the Exmoor Coast Traverse, a 5 day trad traverse. The hardest day is VS. The climb can be done in sections so there is scope for picking and choosing.

| Essential Information | |
|-----------------------|--|
| Coordinator | Angie Jaleel |
| Location | Ruda Campsite, North Devon |
| Accommodation | Self-booking through campsite website. Campsite offers camping, campervan and caravan options. Alternative accommodation can be found in one of the local cottages |
| Links | https://www.parkdeanresorts.co.uk/location/devon/ruda/ |
| Costs | Self-booking through campsite or alternative |
| Facilities | See links |

Nearby Lundy offers one of the longest slab climbs in the country -The Devils Slide is HS.

For walkers, there is the South West Coast Path and Exmoor which is an international dark reserve for those who like star gazing.

There is surfing at Croyde Bay and Woolacombe.

Generally, the area is a beautiful scenic part of the country and there should be something for all tastes.

Angie