Training for hill walkers wishing to learn basic scrambling skills, simple rope work and gain confidence and the judgment to move on to more adventurous mountain terrain.

Day 2 Sunday 27th May

This is aimed at those with some prior rope work experience in climbing or scrambling, developing their skills in creating a range of belay anchors suitable for scrambling or climbing, as well as rope management skills and techniques for safeguarding others when on serious terrain.

The training will take place at suitable venues where skills can be taught and practiced in relative safety on non-serious terrain, allowing more people to participate.

Initially one day per participant will be offered.
